ICUTE SKIN TORMENT

My hands and arms, right up to the was, broke out with large blisters, as inch across. I need not tell sufferer from distressing skin committee what I went through. The tation almost drove me mad. I ame an out-patient of a London pital and after a fortnight's attending I was seen by a skin specialist o told me the complaint was psoria. The irritation was not allayed at Later the disease took a more sous form, affecting my neck and face well as my hands and arms. My neck scovered and sometimes my eyes were sadly swollen that I could scarcely see, itation is too mild a word to describe suffering, it was exeruciating agony, btained some Cuticura Sonp, Cutica Resolvent and Cuticura Ointment dwas especially pleased with the atment, which immediately allayed itching and caused the scres to heal adily and surely. In three weeks I a completely cured and there has been return of the complaint. Arthur mean, Bridgend, Wales, Jan. 16, 1909."

Byington.

It is related of the late A. Homer Byington, the veteran Connecticut formalist who has just died, that as a war correspondent at Gettysburg he endeavored in vain to induce General Meade to pursue Lee's retreating simy instead of merely following it. The Hartford Times says that on the day after the battle Beington hired a pair of mules and a wason from a Gettysburg farmer and drove to the top of South Mountain, where the top of South Mountain, where the method confederate army could be men shut in between the river and the mountain ridge. On his return Byington urged Meade to attack Lee's coped-up host, but Meade would not. Cartainly Meade missed a great opportunity and drew upon himself a sharp letter from Lincoln. Moreover, secording to General Pleasanton, Lincols told Meade to his face that his pursuit of Lee reminded film of an old women shooting ducks across a creek, which was certainly graphic. Blyington was not the only war correspondent who acquired his own idea of the real espabbilities of certain commanders who had greatness thrust upon them by their lieutenants.—Boston Transcript.

Town Council Talks on Sunday Closing, Grading Union Street and Other Topics-Druggist's License Granted Thomas J. Bannon-Town Clerk and Solicitor

The monthly meeting of the West-erly town council was held Monday, with every member present except ber. The petition was for license for July, August and Septem-ber. ouncilman Burdick, who started for Councilman Burdick, who started for Florida a short time before the session opened. After the reading and acceptance of the minutes of previous meetings, Water Commissioner Louis W. Arnold spoke in regard to the payment of a bill of $450 charged against the town for the lowering the water pipes in Beach street, which work was done by request of the highway committee. Commissioner Arnold declared that payment was due the water department for the work, and that in the future the water department (Coy urged immediate action, as the in the future the water department would expect pay for work done for any other department of the town. The matter was referred to the highway committee for report to the next regular session.

Judge John W. Sweeney appeared for the owner of the St. Clair confes-tionery store, and asked why orders had been issued by the police to close the store on Sunday. Chairman Cul-ley of the police committee replied that complaint had been received from proprietors of places that are com-pelled to close on Sunday, that certain other stores were permitted to do business, and asked that these other places be closed. Mr. Culley said that it was found that some storekeepers were doing business seven days a week. The police committee ordered that the places complained against be closed, and they were closed for business Sunday.

Councilman Saunders said that the peremptory order closing certain reputable places on Sunday was done without the knowledge of the council, and favored making public all that was in connection with the order. Judge Sweeney said it was evident that the council as a whole had no knowledge of the matter, the police committee acting without advice of the council.

Town Solicitor Agard explained that there had been complaints received from Pierce street residents, where stores were open every day in the stores were open every day in the week, some for questionable purposes. The law is against stores being open seven days a week, and the police committee enforced the law to a reasonable extent. All the stores in Pierce street section were ordered closed, and then the question was raised in regard to stores located elsewhere, and where there was no danger where, and where there was no danger of violation of liquor laws. He suggested that as Councilman Burdick would be away for several weeks, the matter of closing certain stores on Sunday be left to the discretion of Councilman Culley and Chief Bransfield for the present. This was agreefield for the present. This was agreeable to Judge Sweeney.

The proprietor of the Westerly Ice Cream company protested against the order to close Sunday, when it was made applicable to everybody doing business on that day.

verse action taken by the police committee. If the Sunday law was to be enforced, it should be enforced to the letter, and reach out far enough to include Watch Hill and all parts of Westerly.

J. Irving Maxson asked if the names of the complainants would be made public and Councilman Culley informed him if Councilman Burdick was present the query could be answered.

Councilman Saunders said that the peremptory order closing certain reputable places on Sunday was done without the knowledge of the council, and favored making public all that the opportune time to establish the grade and the carrying out of the votes of the series of town meetings. Mr. Burke stated that the Hibernian society had submitted a proposition to the original committee but had never been given hearing by that committee. If the extreme cut is to be made the Hibernians would expect the town to Hibernians would expect the town to bear the expense of lowering the building to the same relative position as regard to grade as at present. He objected to any change of grade until it was definitely known whether fair recompense was to be made for the damage. No action taken.

Judge John W. Sweeney urged that something be done towards the new grade for Bay street. It was explained grade for Bay street. It was explained that there was unavoidable delay in the preparation of the plat and the matter was continued to the next reg-ular meeting.

John J. Dunn appeared as counsel for Peter Rose, applicant for a liquor license in Oak street, to which remonstrance had been made. He announced that two of the remonstrants had withdrawn and that at present the within 206 teet of the proposed saloon were not opposed to the application.

Mr. Rose referred in strong terms to the acts of the prime mover against the granting of his application, stating that some of the parties were told that they would be protected in the illegal sale of liquor, provided they opposed the locating of a licensed saloon.

Pool table licenses were granted two applicants in Pierce street, Joseph Ouray and Guisseppi Turano. Council-man Flynn suggested that not as a matter of sentiment but as a matter of justice to those who pay licenses, that the law be enforced in regard to the operation of pool tables. He could see no reason why some were operated without license because they, were located elsewhere than in Pierce street.

Santo Turano made application for a wholesale and retail license to sell intoxicating liquors at 71 Pierce street not to be drunk on the premises. Ac-tion deferred.
